

NEW WINTER APPAREL

The season's round of winter dances and parties will soon begin. Are you prepared? Our Garment Department offers many new things in the line of Afternoon and Evening Dresses, in both Wool and Silk, in the best shades and materials. Buy now and save that worry and flurry at the last minute.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE OUR Special Suit Values at $12.50

We are offering Suits valued at from $15.00 to $22.50, in the very newest models and materials. Excellent Suits for winter and early spring wear. Also a few better Suits at sharp reductions.

New Coats Continue to Arrive

This week we are showing some of the very newest models just out. If you have not already bought your winter coat, call and see them.

Silk and Lingerie Waists

in abundance. Excellent values. See our new Angora Cap and Scarf Sets that are so much the rage. They will please you.

We have a nice assortment of Children's Angora Suits in the best colors. Just the thing to keep the little ones warm.

Extraordinary Sale of Hair Goods Fine, Soft, Wavy SWITCHES

at $1.25 to $7.75

This sale of switches is one of the most attractive offerings ever presented to the women of Barre.

They are all 24 to 30 in. long, made of excellent quality natural wavy hair mounted on three separate strands, in all shades.

These switches are just what the average woman requires to arrange her hair in a becoming style.

Worth two and three times the price.

Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, we will be closed—Open Wednesday evening until 9 o'clock

THE HOMER FITTS COMPANY

TALK OF THE TOWN

Lot ladies' waists, 30c and 40c, bargain basement prices, at Vaughan's. Mrs. John McKenzie has gone to Concord, N. H., for a visit of several days with relatives.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Ladies' black petticoats at bargain basement prices at Vaughan's. John McConachie left last evening for Boston, where he will make a business visit of several days.

TALK OF THE TOWN

You may have some lemon sherbet by phoning Brown's Drug Store, adv. F. M. Mears of Haverhill, Mass., is in town purchasing a carload of livestock. The Altruists will meet with Miss Sherburne, 36 Keith avenue, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Fred Davis and Earl Smith of Highland avenue went to Corinth this morning to pass the remainder of the week with a party of deer hunters.

The Warren (O.) Chronicle of Nov. 20 has the following item of interest to Barre and Montpelier people: "Claiming that the company is insolvent and asking for a receiver to take over the property and convert it into cash, the G. R. Bianchi Granite company has filed suit in common pleas court against the Enterprise Granite company of this city. Suit is brought for $771.93, claimed due on promissory notes."

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

William J. Lane, formerly of Sig Saw-elle's four-plate canvas exposition, played the role of bally-ho man, low comedian and bouncer in a little vaudeville performance at the Central Vermont station yesterday afternoon, played them all so realistically that a gaping crowd of station hangers-on viewed with dismay the appearance of Officer David Henderson on the scene. Lane let loose another bag of tricks later in the afternoon, but he was in the police station and the audience was more slightly proportioned. To-day he pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense before Magistrate H. W. Scott, refused to improve on the time-worn "stranger" story when asked to disclose, and took a straight sentence of 30 days in the county jail together with an alternative of 80 days additional to be served in lieu of a $15 fine and costs. In passing sentence, the court expressed a regret that the penalty fitted so well into the respondent's notion of finding shelter for the winter, and deplored the fact that the state is without a convenient rock pile for offenders who seek jail sentences.

BARRE DAILY TIMES

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1915.

The Weather

Partly cloudy to-night and Thursday; moderate and variable winds.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Corsets on bargain table, 70c, 95c pair, at Vaughan's.

Miss Bessie Spear is in Richmond, where she plays for a concert to-night.

Delicious frozen pudding for your Thanksgiving dinner at Drown's, adv.

Mrs. E. H. Noyes of Sharon is the guest of Mrs. F. D. Ladd of Franklin street.

Harry Broadwell of Brattleboro is spending a few days with his family on Mount Street.

Fred G. Brown resumed work at Trow & Holden's yesterday after a week's vacation spent in Marshfield hunting deer.

Lawton Witt of Goddard seminary left this morning for his home in Winchester, Mass., to pass the Thanksgiving recess.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Flanders and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Flanders left to-day for Lyndonville, where they will remain until after the holiday.

All those who intend to be in the chorus of the "Honey-moon Lane," are asked to meet in the Knights of Pythias hall to-night at 7:45 o'clock.

Miss Edith Gordon, who is taking a course at the nurses' training school at Waltham, Mass., and Miss Hester Gove, a student at the Crane Institute of Music in Potomac, N. Y., are visiting at their respective homes in the city.

Miss May McLellan, pianist at the Granite theatre in Graniteville, was a visitor in the city to-day while on her way to spend Thanksgiving with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Antill, in Peterboro, N. H. Miss McLellan will also visit friends in Boston before her return.

This evening at 7:30 o'clock the annual union Thanksgiving service will be held in the Hedding Methodist church, with special music and the following program: Scripture reading, Rev. J. B. Beardon; prayer, Rev. J. W. Barnett; reading of the governor's proclamation, Rev. Edgar Crossland; sermon, Rev. George H. Holt; closing prayer and benediction, Rev. E. F. Newell. It is hoped there may be a large attendance.

Cobble Hill grange held a special meeting last evening to confer the third and fourth degrees on 17 candidates, after which the following program was given: Song, trio (encore) Mrs. Arthur L. Pierce, Miss Hazel Hack and Roy Smith; reading, Fred Reynolds; reading, Mrs. Luther Nelson; song (encore) by five male voices. A color scheme of red and white was used in the decoration. A hash supper was enjoyed after the exercises.

At 8 o'clock this morning the flying squadron from the fire station made a hurried trip to the north end, having been summoned northward by a surplus of steam in the house owned and occupied by J. Calagni near the corner of Foss and Berlin streets. The dwelling is located in the rear of the P. D. Molla bakery and what was at first thought to be smoke turned out to be steam. The regulars were among the first to make this discovery and it was on their suggestion that doors and windows in the building were opened to permit the steam to escape. The auto truck returned to the station immediately.

The Consolidated Lighting Co. is getting ready to install a series of six motors in the new granite manufacturing plant which William A. Milne is erecting in the south end. Work on the stonewall is progressing rapidly toward completion and the company expects to be enclosed in its new quarters by Dec. 15. Modern equipment is being introduced in all departments and wherever possible electricity is to be used for motive power. The battery of motors is to include one 75 horsepower motor, five and four horsepower motors, a three and a half horsepower motor and two 10 horsepower motors. Much of the machinery, including the compressor, has arrived on the scene of the building operations and will be installed as rapidly as possible.

GRANITEVILLE

Vaudeville show in Gilbert's hall to-morrow night. Freeman brothers, two clever boys in a singing and dancing specialty, direct from Times theatre, New York City. Six reels—"Their Secret," two acts; "The Broken Coin," serial; Nestor comedies. Admission, 10c to all, adv.

WEBSTERVILLE

Vaudeville Friday evening at Palace theatre, Freeman brothers, two clever boys in a singing and dancing specialty, direct from Times theatre, New York City. Four reels. Admission, 10c, adv.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Notice! All kinds of stove repairs at E. A. Prindle & Co., Pearl street.

Leon Ducharme came home from Marshfield Monday with a 200-pound doe.

Fancy calendars, all designs and sizes, suitable for Christmas gifts. Martin's Book Store.

Mrs. George White was taken to the City hospital yesterday afternoon for a slight operation.

The Spaulding Glee club dance at the assembly hall Friday evening is for pupils and alumni of the school.

The creamery will be open to-night until 9 o'clock and open Thursday to 11 a. m. and from 5:30 to 6:30 p. m., adv.

Phone us your order for frozen pudding, lemon cream sherbet and vanilla ice cream for Thanksgiving. Drown's Drug Store.

Mrs. Ellen L. Stoughton of French street left this morning for Rochester, where she will spend Thanksgiving with her son, Henry.

Nedie Hooker and Winifred Vaughan, students at Norwich university, Northfield, are passing the Thanksgiving recess at their homes in this city.

Harvey E. Averill of North street, a teller in the People's National bank, was able to be down town to-day, after having been confined to the house by typhoid fever for several weeks.

The Combination Five will play Co. F seconds from Northfield Thursday night at the Church street gym. A small admission fee will be charged. Game will start at 7:30 sharp.

Gordon Owen, who has been spending several days with his brother in Montgomery, has returned to East Barre and resumed his duties in M. J. Whitcomb's furniture store yesterday.

Miss C. E. Porter, former preceptress at Goddard seminary, now a teacher in the normal school at Plattsburg, N. Y., is expected this evening to spend Thanksgiving at the home of J. W. McDonald.

BUY YOUR BATTING

at Cost To-day

We received a shipment of Cotton Batting yesterday, bought some months ago, and we find we haven't sufficient storage room for it.

We are going to close out a part at cost:

"Alpine," 10c quality, per roll ..... 8c

"Uncle Sam," our regular 10c quality and some sell it for 12½c, per roll ..... 8c

"Creole," our 12½c Batting, per roll ..... 10c

"White Star," our 15c Batting, per roll ..... 12c

"White Bear," our 50c Batting, per roll ..... 39c

We will fill and deliver your telephone orders. The price will be changed as soon as the stock is reduced.

Order yours to-day.

Don't forget our Ladies' Tea Apron

Special To-day—10c

Henry W. Knight

Gordon Block, Next to N. D. Phelps Co.'s Phone 590

Union Dry Goods Company

"The NEW Store"

To-morrow, Thanksgiving Day, this store will be closed

Open this evening until 9 o'clock

THIS IS THE LAST DAY OF THE THANKSGIVING SALE, SO COME AND SHARE IN THE SPECIAL OFFERINGS

WAIST SPECIAL

These are all pretty styles, nicely made and trimmed, all sizes from 36 to 44, and worth regularly from $1.00 to $1.25. Very special at ..... 89c

WAIST SPECIAL

Stylish new Waists in fine Crepes, Mes-salines, Taffetas, Striped Tub Silks, etc., A full assortment of sizes and a variety of styles that will surely please you. Very special at ..... $2.25